History of Philosophy Quarterly

Edited by Brian Copenhaver

History of Philosophy Quarterly (HPQ) specializes in papers that cultivate philosophical history with a strong interaction between contemporary and historical concerns. Contributors regard work in the history of philosophy and in philosophy itself as parts of a seamless whole, treating the work of past philosophers not only in terms of historical inquiry, but also as a means of dealing with issues of ongoing philosophical concern. The journal favors the approach to philosophical history, increasingly prominent in recent years, that refuses to see the boundary between philosophy and its history as an impassable barrier.

HPQ is published by the University of Illinois Press on behalf of North American Philosophical Publications.

Subscriptions to HPQ start at $60.00 for individuals and $353.00 for institutions.

The background of the entire page is a dark gray field filled with a dense, repeating pattern of white silhouettes of various animals. These include birds like chickens, ducks, and swans; mammals like deer, horses, and monkeys; and other creatures like fish and insects. The silhouettes are of different sizes and are scattered across the page, creating a textured, organic feel.

MANUSCRIPTS

The American Philosophical Quarterly welcomes original articles that advance our understanding of philosophical problems or positions, on any aspect of philosophy apart from history. Articles are subject to blind review and evaluated based on originality, rigor, depth of insight, mastery of relevant literature, and lucidity of style. The journal does not publish news items, book reviews, critical notices, or “discussion notes” (short or long). The journal does not consider articles under consideration elsewhere.

Contributions should be 2,000 to 7,000 words in length and formatted as a Word document (or a file type compatible with MS Word). All files should be double spaced throughout. Endnotes are preferred to footnotes and should be used sparingly. In order to ensure anonymity of submissions, authors using Word are advised to go to “File . . . Properties . . .” and delete all author-identifying information, under all tabs.

Articles should be submitted electronically to the APQ online manuscript submission system here: <http://www.press.uillinois.edu/journals/apq/apqsubmissions.html>. This secure, personalized resource will allow you to track your manuscript through each step of the review and acceptance process. ## PUBLIC AFFAIRS QUARTERLY

Public Affairs Quarterly (PAQ) publishes work in all areas of practically engaged normative philosophy, broadly understood to include normative work on issues of public concern in applied moral, social, political, and legal philosophy. Topics covered by the journal include subjects of long-standing debate such as abortion, capital punishment, and just war theory; more recently emerging subjects of controversy such as climate change, affirmative action, commercial surrogacy, and the treatment of non-human animals; topics relating to current social movements such as racism and sexual harassment, and to current technological developments such as gene editing and autonomous weapons systems. Submissions of a more general nature that address implications for a cluster of such issues rather than focusing on a single issue are welcome. These topics include race, sexuality, gender, social identity, nationalism, paternalism, privacy, distributive justice, economic fairness, political inequality, and commodification.

The journal is published four times a year, in January, April, July, and October. Subscriptions should be sent to: Journals Department, University of Illinois Press, 1325 S. ## HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY QUARTERLY

The History of Philosophy Quarterly is a scholarly journal that aims to cultivate philosophical history in the spirit of philosophia perennis. HPQ approaches the history of philosophy and philosophy itself as parts of a whole, seeing the work of past philosophers not only as objects of historical inquiry but also ways to address current problems of philosophy. Hence, HPQ finds no impassible boundary between philosophy and its history, regarding historical studies as a way of dealing with problems of continuing interest and importance. Each issue is devoted entirely to articles: no book reviews and no discussion notes, though general surveys on particular topics may be published.

Subscriptions should be sent to: Journals Department, University of Illinois Press, 1325 S. Oak St., Champaign, IL 61820; phone: 866-244-0626 (toll free), or 217-244-0626; fax: 217-244-8082; e-mail: journals@uillinois.edu; www.press.uillinois.edu. Rates are $60 for individuals or $353 (print only or electronic only) or $397 (print and electronic) for institutions.
