

SUBMISSION TO CONNECTICUT HISTORY REVIEW

Connecticut History Review, a continuation of Connecticut History, is a publication of the Association for the Study of Connecticut History (ASCH), and appears twice annually, in the spring and fall. The journal is produced in cooperation with the University of Connecticut and receives financial support from the University of Connecticut.

All authors desiring to submit original articles for publication consideration in Connecticut History Review may send an electronic copy of the proposed article (in .doc or .docx format) to the editor-in-chief. The author's name should not appear on the submission itself. All articles and other submissions should conform to the Chicago Manual of Style, utilizing footnotes; see the Style Sheet posted on the ASCH website [www.asch-cthistory.org]. Please provide both email and USPS mail addresses so that the editorial office may contact you regarding the receipt and possible acceptance of the proposed article. Articles and essays submitted to Connecticut History Review should not be submitted to any other publication while under consideration.

COVER: Harris & Ewing, “The Flying Senators,” November 27, 1927. Senator Frederick Hale of Maine, left, and Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut were called the “flying senators” on Capitol Hill because of their frequent use of the airplane to transact government business. This photograph was snapped at Bolling Field, Washington, DC, just before the senators took off for Langley Field, VA. Senator Bingham was an experienced pilot, having seen service with the Army Air Service during World War I. Negative, Library of Congress Prints and Photographs Division, Washington, D.C. 20540 USA
