

Table of Contents

Iapetus and Japheth: Hesiod's Theogony , Iliad 15.187–93, and Genesis 9–10	1
BRUCE LOUDEN, University of Texas, El Paso
Reported Assembly Scenes in Greek Tragedy	23
D. M. CARTER, University of Reading
What Was He Reading Exactly? Marcus Argentarius, AP 9.161 (= 1369–72 GP), and Hesiod's Works and Days	65
ATHANASSIOS VERGADOS, University of Tennessee, Knoxville
Plutarch, Alexander, and Dream Divination	81
CAROL J. KING, Memorial University of Newfoundland, Grenfell Campus
The Bema and the Stage: Stratocles and Philippides in Plutarch's Demetrius	113
MALLORY MONACO, Princeton University
The Sobbin' Women : Romulus, Plutarch, and Stephen Vincent Benét	127
CATHERINE CONNORS, University of Washington, Seattle
The Bough and the Lock: Fighting Fate in the Aeneid	149
JULIA HEJDUK, Baylor University
Poetics of Elision in the Silvae	159
DUSTIN HEINEN, North Carolina State University
The Chariot Race and the Destiny of the Empire in Statius' Thebaid	187
STEFANO REBEGGIANI, New York University
From Crisis to Consensus: Salutory Ideology and the Murder of Agrippina	207
TREVOR LUKE, Florida State University

Apuleius' Cupid Considered as a Lamia (Metamorphoses 5.17–18)	229
D. FELTON, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Lucan and John Chrysostom: A Parallel of Imagination	245
J. K. NEWMAN, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign	