The Journal of Appalachian Studies announces a special two-year forum on sustainable economic development in Appalachia, starting with the journal’s spring 2016 (Vol. 22, No. 1) issue and ending with the fall 2017 (Vol. 23, No. 2) issue. We invite the submission of manuscripts dealing with practices relevant to sustainable economic development in Appalachian communities. We will consider a wide-range of scholarship from a variety of disciplines and applied fields. Manuscripts focusing on economic development theory, empirical and/or applied research, or narrative essays on development issues will be welcome. We also seek research which compares Appalachia to other regions in the world.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Tourism and development
Social capital, trust, politics, and development
Infrastructure
Broadband and technology
Education, labor, capital, and development
Funding community and economic development
Entrepreneurship
Place-based development
Local food movements
Downtown development
Local currency
Out- and in-migration and development
Social change, policy and movements
Land ownership
Gender and development
Taxes and development
The creative class in Appalachia
Vision-building
Public participation methods
Health care and its effects on development
Globalization
The Commons
Privatization and neoliberalism
Cooperatives, non-profits, employee-owned business
Credit, access to capital
Environmental capital and sustainable development

Scholars are encouraged to submit papers addressing, but not limited to, the following topics:

Articles should be submitted electronically to the JAS online manuscript submission portal at www.appalachian-studies.org/journal/submissions.php. Direct questions to JAS Editor Shaunna Scott at shaunna.scott@uky.edu or the forum’s special editor, Will Hatcher, at wihatcher@gru.edu.

The deadline for manuscripts to be considered for publication for the fall 2017 issue is February 1, 2017. Please see our website for additional deadlines.
Edited by Michael Ezra

The Journal of Civil and Human Rights is an interdisciplinary academic journal dedicated to studying modern U.S.-based social justice movements and freedom struggles, including transnational ones, and their antecedents, influence, and legacies.

JCHR is published with the support of Sonoma State University.

Subscriptions start at $30.00 for individuals and $70.00 for institutions.

For more information visit: http://www.press.uillinois.edu/journals/jchr.html

www.press.uillinois.edu • (217) 244-0626 • journals@uillinois.edu
FIGHTING KING COAL
The Challenges to Micromobilization in Central Appalachia

Shannon Elizabeth Bell

“By studying both successful and unsuccessful instances of mobilization against ’King Coal’ and local residents who did and did not join these efforts, Bell has authored a highly original book that offers an important corrective to the regrettable tendency of scholars to ‘select on the dependent variable’ in studying both movements and individual activism. An altogether welcome, if sobering, addition to the literature on movements.”

—Doug McAdam, Ray Lyman Wilbur Professor of Sociology, Stanford University; coauthor of Deeply Divided: Racial Politics and Social Movements in Postwar America

Urban and Industrial Environments series

mitpress.mit.edu
For over forty-five years, American Literary Realism has brought readers critical essays on American literature from the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The whole panorama of great authors from this key transition period in American literary history, including Henry James, Edith Wharton, Mark Twain, and many others, is discussed in articles, book reviews, critical essays, bibliographies, documents, and notes on all related topics. Each issue is also a valuable bibliographic resource. Recent issues have included essays on Jack London and Charlotte Perkins Gilman.

Subscriptions to ALR start at $35.00 for individuals. Institutional subscriptions start at $54.00.

For more information, please visit http://www.press.uillinois.edu/journals/alr.html
ANDERSON BLANTON illuminates how prayer, faith, and healing are intertwined with technologies of sound reproduction and material culture in the charismatic Christian worship of southern Appalachia. From the radios used to broadcast prayer to the curative faith cloths circulated through the postal system, material objects known as spirit-matter have become essential since the 1940s, Blanton argues, to the Pentecostal community’s understanding and performances of faith.

“A brilliant and deeply fascinating analysis of Appalachian iconoclastic Pentecostal mystical practice. It carefully and powerfully guides the reader through dense (and riveting) terrains of daily religious life and into truly exciting philosophical, religious, and poetic forms of recognition of the power of messages resounding in the ordinary world.”
— Kathleen Stewart, University of Texas at Austin

“An engaging and insightful contribution to our understandings of American Christianity, especially the vibrant traditions of Christianity in the Blue Ridge and surrounds. In Blanton, we have a wonderful new voice on religion and media.”
— Matthew Engelke, The London School of Economics and Political Science

UNC Press books are now available through Books @ JSTOR and Project Muse – and North Carolina Scholarship Online (NCSO) on Oxford Scholarship Online.

THE UNIVERSITY of NORTH CAROLINA PRESS
bookstores or 800-848-6224 • uncpress.unc.edu • uncpressblog.com
The Journal of Sport History (JSH) seeks to promote the study of all aspects of the history of sport. The Journal invites the submission of scholarly articles, research notes, documents, and commentary; interview articles and book reviews are assigned by the Editor.

The Journal of Sport History is published by the University of Illinois Press on behalf of the North American Society for Sport History (NASSH).

Membership in NASSH begins at $30.00 for students, $60.00 for individuals, and $150.00 for institutions.

For more information, please visit: http://www.press.uillinois.edu/journals/jsh.html

www.press.uillinois.edu • (217) 244-0626 • journals@uillinois.edu
The Southern Quarterly is an internationally known scholarly journal that has been devoted to the interdisciplinary study of Southern arts and culture for more than fifty years. Now in Project MUSE, SoQ brings scholarly articles, cutting edge interviews, archival documents with commentary, photo essays, portfolios, and book reviews to subscribers all over the world.

Individuals $35/year • Institutions $65/year

www.usm.edu/soq
118 College Drive #5078 • Hattiesburg, MS 39406

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI
COLLEGE OF ARTS AND LETTERS

AA/EOE/ADA
The next volume in the Common Threads series, Immigrant Identity and the Politics of Citizenship, is a joint effort with the Journal of American Ethnic History. Editor John Bukowczyk selected 14 articles that discuss the divisions and hierarchies that immigrants coming to the United States confront and how these immigrants shape and are shaped by the social and cultural worlds they enter here. Drawing on scholarship about ethnic groups from around the globe, the chapters illuminate the often fraught journey many migrants undertake from mistrusted “Other” to sometimes-welcomed citizen.

Examine the full table of contents at http://www.press.uillinois.edu/common_threads.html

e-book: $9.95 • paperback: $30.00

To purchase: http://www.press.uillinois.edu/common_threads.html