For over fifty years, American Literary Realism has brought readers critical essays on American literature from the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

The whole panorama of great authors from this key transition period in American literary history is discussed in articles, book reviews, critical essays, bibliographies, documents, and notes on all related topics.

Covered authors include Henry James, Edith Wharton, Mark Twain, and many others, such as Jack London and Charlotte Perkins Gilman.

The MCJA seeks original articles on Eastern Woodlands archaeology of the region between the Appalachian Mountains and the Great Plains, from the Boreal Forests to the Gulf of Mexico, and on closely related subjects.

Our contributions range in chronology and context from the kill sites of the continents’ first inhabitants to the privies of early 20th century city dwellers.

We are especially interested in manuscripts that apply contemporary theory or method to existing problems and data sets in the midcontinent and that are of broad, general interest across the region.
