Utah Historical Quarterly (UHQ) is Utah’s journal of record, published quarterly on behalf of the Utah Historical Society since 1928. The UHQ’s mission, from its earliest issues to the present, is to publish articles on all aspects of Utah history, as well as to present Utah in the larger context of the West. Even as UHQ continues its commitment to themes traditionally associated with Utah history, it challenges readers and authors to think across state lines to the forces of history, physiography, and culture that link Utah to a host of people, places, experiences, and trends beyond its geopolitical boundaries. UHQ seeks a regional approach, reflecting Utah’s geographic and cultural position at the crossroads of the West. UHQ’s editorial style emphasizes scholarly credibility and accessible language. Manuscripts dealing with any aspect of Utah history will be considered. Submissions based on allied disciplines—such as archaeology, folklore, or ethnography—are also encouraged, so long as the focus is on the past.

For submission and style guidelines visit history.utah.gov/utah-historical-quarterly. Articles and book reviews represent the views of the authors and are not necessarily those of the Utah Historical Society.

UHQ welcomes letters to the editor. Letters are published occasionally and online. We reserve the right to restrict word count and edit content.
